Bat creator lives in Virginia Beach

For those Virginia Beach residents who have seen the Virginia Stage Company's current production, of "Count Dracula," beware, because the batmaker lives here in the city.

"Actually I sat at home on the couch and made the bats by hand," said David Whitmore, 39.

"My wife and I had gone to the library and checked out a lot of books on bats," he said, "and I actually became immersed in them for about a week."

Whitmore has made three bats for the gothic vampire production, Count Dracula, the largest of the three, with glowing red eyes.

"The biggest bat has a wingspan of 40 inches," Whitmore said, "And weighs less than two pounds."

"Its body is fashioned with hardware cloth, like a screen wire, and covered with furry-like cloth.

Its wings are formed with piano string wire and covered with material.

This bat (see picture) is the only one with teeth, and features flaming red eyes as it swoops from upstage over the audience."

A master craftsman

Whitmore, who says he has "Been making things all my life," is employed with the VSC as the props master and master carpenter.

A native of Duluth, Minn., he is also a furniture maker, with 10 years experience.

His responsibilities at the Virginia Stage Company include acquisition and construction of the sets under the direction of the production manager.

Whitmore has studied music and set theory at the University of Alaska; and drawing, painting and Dance at Antioch College in Ohio.

His paintings have been exhibited in Ohio and Minnesota and are represented in many private collections throughout the United States.

Students to display art

Youth Art Month observed

Virginia Beach Public Schools will observe Youth Art Month with displays of student art and special activities during March.

Art teachers have chosen as this year's theme, "Art Endures." The theme communicates the important role that art plays in civilization. Helping students to understand and to enjoy their artistic heritage is just one goal of the Virginia Beach art program.

Art serves the individual in other meaningful ways too. Art stimulates a child's natural curiosity, fosters creative growth, and provides an avenue for self-expression.

Improve visual perception

Improving visual perception at all levels is another aim of the Virginia Beach art curriculum. This skill is needed in modern society where most learning is visual in nature. Recent research shows that art is not only important in itself, but that it contributes to a child's success in other subject areas as well.

Through the art program in Virginia Beach, art specialists provide regular instruction at the elementary level, and secondary schools offer a variety of art electives, including advanced placement courses in studio and art history. The Vocational-Technical Center gives students practical training for the many career opportunities in commercial art. Virginia Beach students have won numerous awards on the local, regional, state, and national levels.

Coordinator of Art, Dr. Nancy Jones, emphasizes that art is for everyone. "Participation in art is an essential part of a quality education in Virginia Beach. We integrate many important aspects of the visual environment into our art courses. Making art, talking and studying about the work of artists past and present, developing perception and career awareness, and knowing the basics of good design are included in courses which are designed to meet the needs of all students. Art is truly a form of communication which has existed throughout the history of mankind, adding meaning to our theme, 'Art Endures'."

Elementary art show

Parents are encouraged to visit the annual Elementary Art Show at Pembroke Mall March 24 through 29. Each elementary school will participate in this colorful and charming display of children's art.

Secondary art will be exhibited April 28 through May 3, also at Pembroke Mall. Awards will be donated by the Hermitage Foundation for junior and senior high school students.

Other Youth Art Month activities include exhibits at individual schools and in the community, guest artists in the schools, and other creative celebrations. Parents will be invited to some schools to share in special programs and events.

Virginia's 4 p.m. burning law in effect

Virginia Beach residents have been advised that aerial patrols will be flown during the spring fire season by the Virginia Division of Forestry in an effort to spot forest fires and to check for compliance with the 4 p.m., burning law.

Virginia's 4 p.m., burning law is effective from March 1 to May 15 according to Clayton I. Brown, chief forest warden for the City of Chesapeake. During this period, daily aerial patrols will be made over the area in an effort to locate forest fires while still small. On these flights, all open air burning will also be checked to see if it conforms with Virginia's forest fire laws.

Laws spelled out

The 4 p.m., burning law prohibits any open air fires such as burning brush, trash, or any type of inflammable material capable of spreading fire to the woods, except between the hours of 4 p.m., and 12 midnight, unless such burning is done more than 300 feet from any woodland or fuel leading to the woods. The period during which this law is effective is normally the most dangerous forest fire season of the year. All leaves and grasses are cured and when dry will burn very rapidly with high wind.

Penalty spelled out

The penalty for any person convicted of violating this law shall be a fine of not less than $10 or more than $100 for each offense. If any forest fire shall originate as a result of the violation, in addition to the above penalty, a person is liable for the full amount of all expenses incurred by the State in suppressing such fire.

Brown also stated that no open air fire can be left burning unattended at any time of the year, unless more than 150 feet from any woodland, without violating the Virginia forest fire laws.

Anyone having questions regarding the forest fire laws or any type of open air burning should call the Portsmouth office of the Division of Forestry, 488-1921.

Special to the Sun

Associate degree in media advertising arts offered to Chesapeake residents at local college.

This winter, the Virginia Beach campus of Tidewater Community College began offering a curriculum in media advertising arts. The six-quarter, two-year program leads to an associate degree in applied science in arts and design technology.

We expect that some of our graduates will go directly into the advertising field. Others may choose to take more schooling in a specialized area such as graphic arts, radio and TV production or advertising design.

Our graduates also will be prepared for a variety of other jobs such as public relations assistant, retail display designer, radio/TV advertising sales representative, advertising account specialist, graphic arts illustrator and advertising sales representative, advertising account specialist, graphic arts illustrator and advertising copy writer.

Approximately one-half the courses in the curriculum are related to communications, such as English, speech and radio. One-fourth of the courses are related to business and marketing and one-fourth, related to general education, such as psychology and literature.

One of the courses in the curriculum which we are offering for the first time here on our campus is fundamentals of lettering. In this three-credit course, students will learn calligraphy as an introduction to script and the constructed letter. They also will progress to creative freehand and mechanical lettering and learn to incorporate the lettering in graphic layout projects. This course will take place during spring quarter and will meet on Monday and Wednesday afternoons from 1-3:30 p.m.

Several other specialized courses in the media advertising arts curriculum also will be offered in spring quarter. For instance, students will not have to wait until the fall to take drawing I and design I. Both will be offered this spring. # Local Realtor hits $40 million

By AQUILLA T. RUFFNER

Goodman Segar Hogan Residential Sales Corporation, which in 1979 sold $40 million in Virginia Beach residential real estate, today announced details of an ambitious five-year expansion program.

The plan, which will more than triple the number of GSH offices in Virginia Beach, calls for a reorganization of the company's management structure, the addition of new departments and ancillary services, and physical expansion accomplished both by new growth and the acquisition of existing firms.

As a result of this expansion, Goodman Segar Hogan anticipates that by 1985 it will have 31 branch offices (15 in Virginia Beach), 935 sales associates, $500 million in sales, and a 20% share of the Tidewater residential real estate market. Currently, GSH has 12 offices (four in Virginia Beach), 210 sales associates, a 10% market share, and a 1979 total sales record of $110 million.

The ultimate goal of the five-year expansion plan, according to Goodman Segar Hogan Residential President Oscar B. Ferebee, is to enable the company to provide a "one-stop shopping service" approach to real estate.

"As we grow and diversify over the next five years," says Ferebee, "we plan to be able to offer our clients full service - everything from help in buying and selling a house to home warranties, insurance, closing assistance, property management, and a relocation service for those transferred in or out of the area."

As means of providing this "one-stop shopping service," Goodman Segar Hogan has opened five new departments in 1979/80 and will introduce seven additional services during the next few years.

Already operating and experiencing success is the relocation department which in its first months of existence has handled corporate employee relocation for several major national firms.

This year, GSH has reentered the new homes sales market where the company plans to concentrate on the sales of builder communities, condominiums, and resort property.

Also this year, Goodman Segar Hogan has opened a property management department which will handle the rentals of single-family homes, duplexes and small apartments, a land sales department and an office building department which will be responsible for the construction of Goodman Segar Hogan's own sales offices.

Within 1980, GSH will open an insurance department which will offer homeowners a wide selection of policies including home, title and property protection. Slated for next year is the creation of a home warranty department, and within the next few years, Goodman Segar Hogan Residential will add a closing, a client contact, and an asset management department.

New services which are being added or expanded this year include equity advances (the practice of offering an owner the equity in his home prior to its closing) and a guaranteed sales program (a trade-in policy where GSH agrees to buy a seller's home if it isn't sold within 90 days).

Also called for in GSH's five-year expansion plan is the addition of 19 new offices by 1985. Four offices will be located in Norfolk where presently there is one, six on the Peninsula where there are now three, four in Portsmouth where presently there are two and fifteen in Virginia Beach where there are now four. Both the Great Bridge and the Suffolk offices will be considerably enlarged.

Five-Year Expansion Program

As the first step in Goodman Segar Hogan's growth plan, four key members of the firm's management team have been promoted to executive positions. They will head corporate divisions which have been restructured by the five-year plan.

Jackson H. Pope, E. Thomas Sexton, Jr., and Harold E. Smith, Jr., have been appointed senior vice presidents and members of the Board of Directors, and Sandra W. Ferebee has been named a vice president. In addition, Pope has been named assistant to the president.

In this new capacity, Pope is in charge of GSH's expansion program and long-range planning. As senior vice president in charge of development, Pope will oversee the company's new homes sales department, land sales and project development as well as all marketing junctions.

By HARVEY RIDINGER

Field Representative, Social Security Administration, Virginia Beach Area

Men may get social security benefits based on wife's work record

For some men, the good old days were when women were in the kitchen and the workplace was the exclusive province of males.

Others are happy to note that these days are as outdated as the Model T. This is because they are quite literally reaping the benefits of the work of their wives. About 73,000 men are currently receiving social security benefits as widowers, fathers of minor children, husbands, or disabled widowers on their wife's work record under social security.

This is partly the result of a three-year old Supreme Court decision that men no longer had to prove they were dependent on their wives in order to receive benefits as a husband, or widower of a retired, disabled, or deceased working woman.

While the decision did not exactly open a floodgate of social security benefits to men, it has made it easier for those who for some reason do not qualify for a benefit based on their own work to get social security based on their wives' work.

Benefits may be paid essentially on the same basis that they are paid too women. A man can receive a retirement benefit on his wife's record at age 62, if his wife receives retirement benefits. He can get a survivor's benefit at age 60 if his wife died after working long enough under social security. He may qualify for a disabled widower's benefit if he becomes disabled between 50 and 60 years old.

A widower's benefit will generally end if he remarries before age 60. Benefits continue, however, if he marries a person getting checks as a widow, parent, or adult disabled in childhood.

A widower's benefit will continue if he remarries after age 60.

However, many men who would otherwise qualify for a benefit based on the work of a wife have earnings that exceed the social security annual earnings limit. In 1980, you can earn $3,720 without affecting your social security benefits if you are under age 65. At 65 and over, the limit is $5,000. Earnings above the annual limit reduce the benefit $1 for every $2 of earnings.

A husband's benefit is generally reduced by the amount of any pension based on public employment not covered by social security.

For more details on husband's or widower's benefits, please contact any social security office. The Norfolk office is located at 200 Granby Mall, Room 600. The phone number is 441-3401.

Ferrum honors students

Four Virginia Beach students have been named to the dean's list of Ferrum College, Ferrum, Va.

INTEGRATE ORDER
On Sept. 12, 1958, the U.S. Supreme Court ordered the schools of Little Rock, Ark., to integrate.

Local support needed

Census delivered April 1

Four days before April 1 the postal service will deliver a census questionnaire addressed to each Virginia Beach residence. Each household will be asked to fill out its questionnaire and mail it back on April 1 in the postage-paid envelope that will be enclosed. Census takers will have to call on those households that have not returned their questionnaires within a reasonable time.

There are 384 other census districts throughout the country where this method of enumeration will be used. The Census Bureau estimates that about 90 percent of the U.S. population lives in these districts.

24 other districts

There are 24 other census districts in which the remaining population lives. These districts are outside the large cities and their suburbs. Here mail carriers will distribute unaddressed questionnaires at each residential mail box. Householders will be asked to fill them out but hold them for census takers who will begin picking them up March 31.

However, all districts are alike in one respect in that some households will fall into a sample and be asked to provide more information about each person and about the housing. In places of 2500 population or more, one-in-six households will be in the sample. In areas with populations of less than 2500, one in every two households will fall into the sample. This large sample, in less populated areas is necessary in order to provide statistically adequate data for use as the basis for Federal revenue sharing program allocations. Households not in the sample will receive the "short" form which has seven population questions about each person in the household and 12 housing questions about the dwelling.

Mail back by April 1

The Census Bureau says that having the questionnaire in the home over the weekend before it is to be mailed back on April 1 enabled the family to fill it out when all members are likely to be present and can provide accurate information about themselves and the housing.

Exercise and Physical Fitness

Your Healthy Body

Janeda Jansson,
Virginia Beach Professional
Dance and Exercise Instructor

Dear Janeda,

I'm a registered nurse, and because I'm on my feet a good deal of the time find that my legs sometimes really ache at the end of the day. Because I suffer with a tired aching body my social life at times leaves a lot to be desired.

A friend of mine just recently told me that there are exercises that will help to release tension, relax tired muscles and in general, make a person feel energetic rather than feeling drained. I myself, and I know of a few others, have always thought that exercising would just make you more tired.

Perhaps you could explain a little something about this type of exercising and suggest a few specific ones for tired legs. It would really be appreciated. Thanks.

Jill Scio
Pungo Medical Center Va. Bch.

Dear Jill,

Your friend is quite correct. Of course, your exercising does have to be done in moderation and with proper breathing, to bring about the effect you're looking for.

If you beat your body like a work horse, you'll eventually begin to feel like one and show the strain as well. When the body is worked in the right way you will always feel more energetic upon leaving your session than when you first began.

The reason for this is that stretching areas that have been locked into a certain position for countless hours, releases pent up energy (i.e. tension) that has been stopped up like a dam. When the energy flow is resumed in a natural manner, the body receives the benefit of the energy that has just been released, the muscles that were holding this energy relax and begin to feel soothed by the release, and the ones that have been feeling tired and aching because they haven't been able to receive their proper flow of energy become energized once more.

Basically, that is the natural flow of events that take place within the body when simple stretching and breathing are engaged in. Now, try these stretches and they should help you with the problem you have concerning your legs. Lie flat on your back with your palms of the floor. Breathe in and raise both legs slowly.

Using your hands to brace your back with your elbows on the floor, lift your hips up bringing your legs over your head. Just relax and stay in that position, breathing normally and allowing your legs to dangle over your head. If you can, touch the floor behind your head in a relaxed manner, never forcing. When you feel you've had enough slowly lower your back first and then your legs to the floor.

Next, sit up and raise your arms high over your head and gently rock your buttocks from side to side, while at the same time stretching and pulling your rib cage away from the hips. Inhale, then exhale while bending forward and grabbing hold of your legs wherever you can, preferably your ankles, reach for the floor with your elbows and relax. Stay in this position for as long as is comfortable, just relaxing the areas that you feel are tensed and I think you will be pleasantly surprised.

This exercise does wonders for tired legs and also is one of the best ones I know of to help a person understand the value of learning to relax and let go and to never force anything. Another simple thing you might try is a spinal massage as tired legs are usually connected to a tired back, again caused from pent up energy. Do this one with a little padding under your back. Sit on the floor with your knees drawn up and wrap your arms around them.

Round your back as much as possible creating the position of a rocker on the bottom of a rocking chair. Gently push yourself back with your feet and roll as far as you can so that all the vertebrae are given a gentle massage. Keeping the momentum going rock back up to a sitting position and repeat for as many times as you feel is right. 4 or 5 might be fine in the beginning.

Do these on a daily basis Jill, and I'm sure you will find your energy output has improved 100%. You might also gain an added benefit in that your legs will begin to feel more alive after 5. Relax and enjoy it!

Nutritionists meet

By NANCY WRIGHT

Virginia Beach extension agent

The demand for quality child day care service in Virginia Beach is greater than ever before and more women with preschool age children enter the work force.

Twenty-seven million children under 18 in the U.S. (or 42%) of children under 18, had mothers working or seeking work in March 1974. One out of four were under school age. Thirty three percent of all mothers with children under 3 are working outside as compared to 22% working in 1964. (Source: 1975 E.O.M. Clearance - Oregon Commission for Children and Youth.) The 1980 Census is certain to show an even greater increase.

Many mothers are concerned about the care their child receives while they must be at work. Because children are being left at a center for six, eight and even ten hours a day, feeding of children has become an important priority. Providing meals and nutrition education are now recognized as vital components of a child day care program.

The Virginia cooperative extension service has recognized the major role adequate nutrition plays in the proper development and well being of a child and is scheduling a one day conference for the directors and food service managers of all licensed day care centers in the Tidewater area on Saturday, March 15. It will be held at the Norfolk Technical Vocational Center at 1330 Military Highway. Local extension agents, extension specialists from VPI and SU and food service educators will be involved in the program. Over 100 participants are anticipated. For further information by interested persons please call 427-4511.

California dreaming?

"Oh what a beautiful day," said Beach resident Debbie Murdock last weekend as she sat amid bending sea oats and looked overhead at a cloudless, blue sky. And still not forgetting the blizzard which occurred less than two weeks ago, she sighs, wiggles her toes in the lukewarm sand, and thinks to herself: "Boy I sure would like to go swimming, but I know the water is too cold." # Dolphins finish third in pioneer tournament

By MIKE POTTER
Special to the SUN

ISLE OF WIGHT - "Well-organized with some good competition," was the impression most of the coaches in the first Virginia Private School Invitational championed from the tournament at Isle of Wight this weekend.

All four coaches also expressed the hope that the field would be bigger and stronger, encompassing the whole state in the near future.

"I thought this tournament was very well organized, and I'm going to report back to the Tidewater Conference that I think we can lay a foundation for a state tournament," said coach Ed Willis of tourney winner Norfolk Christian.

'STRONGER COMPETITION KEY'-WILLIS

"I think the key to our winning was that we have played against stronger competition all year," Willis continued. "That's the key for anyone to improve, and I think developing a state championship tournament would make the competition better for everybody."

Charlie Kannan of runner-up Southampton Academy agreed.

'RATHER PLAY A SUPERIOR TEAM'-KANNAN

"We could have ended our season with a VAAC championship and a 25-2 record, but I'd rather go ahead and play a superior team like Norfolk Christian," Kannan said.

"We need to have that kind of competition to improve. I thought Benny Vaughan did a super job getting the tournament together, and I think seeing the success of this one might get some of these other conferences interested in playing a statewide tournament."

CAPE HENRY COACH PLEASED

Cape Henry Collegiate of Virginia Beach, champion of the Metro Conference, finished in third place, but coach Tom Barnes wasn't upset with settling for consolation honors.

"I thought we had four representative, good basketball teams here, and competition like this is good for our conference and for our team," said Barnes. "There definitely should be a state tournament."

Andy Parker, coach of the Commonwealth Conference champions from Tidewater Academy, also felt that a state tournament is in order.

"We finished fourth, but it was worth coming here," said Parker.

"I think it's a good idea to get something started. There should be a state championship tournament, and maybe having this one will help get a real state tournament next year."

Isle of Wight coach Benny Vaughan, co-chairman of the tournament along with SA coach Kannan, did most of the preparation since the Raiders were in the tournament field.

1500 FORT TWO NIGHTS

"I was really pleased with both the crowds and the caliber of play," said Vaughan.

"We had over 1,500 people here for the two nights, and that's a lot to have anywhere when you really have four visiting teams."

"All the coaches who came told me they were planning to take a favorable report on the tournament back to their leagues. Within the next couple of weeks, we will be getting in contact with every private school conference in the state to see if we can get more conferences involved next year. We want this to be a permanent state championship tournament."

30 SCHOOLS WERE ELIGIBLE

Norfolk Christian's expected victory gave them a championship for which 30 schools from Farmville to Urbanna to Exmore and throughout Tidewater were eligible to have competed.

The Ambassadors (27-3) can claim a championship over about a third of the private schools in Virginia.

Second-place Southampton Academy finished 26-3 while third-place Cape Henry ended up 26-5.

Tidewater, which had been an upset winner in the Commonwealth Conference tournament, ended the year with a 16-15 record.

Big George Wagner looks to pass around Tidewater Academy's Jimmy Parsons in the consolation game. The 6-8 senior center tallied 35 points to lead Cape Henry to a 73-49 victory and a third-place finish. Wagner was named to the all-tournament team.

Be alert! The Census comes to Virginia Beach

For most Virginia Beach residents, the 1980 census will be simple enough.

A questionnaire will arrive in the mail on March 28. The recipient will simply answer the questions, which will not take long, and then either mail back the form on April 1 or hold it for a census taker to pick up, depending on the instructions.

What may not be apparent to millions of Americans, as they answer the census in the privacy and convenience of their homes, is the fact that they are making personal contributions to an undertaking so vast, so complex, that the 1980 census qualifies as one of the largest peacetime efforts ever mounted in this country.

By the time the last American is counted sometime during the summer, the Bureau of the Census will have reached an estimated 222 million U.S. residents and 86 million housing units, and gathered more than three billion answers.

The 222 million residents, a nine percent population increase since 1970, include some people who do not speak English, people with various political opinions, the rich and the destitute, the educated and the illiterate, members of all the earth's races. The census must also assess their housing—single-family homes, houseboats, condominiums, shacks, "abandoned" buildings, migrant worker camps, jails, school dormitories, at sea, and overseas. The census is expected to count 25 percent more housing units in 1980 than in 1970.

At the same time, never in the history of the census, which has been taken every 10 years since 1790, have census findings played as important a role in American life as they do today. Besides the Constitutional mandate to provide a basis for reapportioning seats in the House of Representatives, the census measures how well the Nation is doing, from the block level to the entire country. Its findings are used in the private and public sectors to decide how billions of dollars will be spent annually.

Planning for the 1980 census, which has gone on since the early seventies, reflects this heightened need for the most complete count ever taken, especially of minorities.

In 90 percent of the Nation's households, people will be asked to take their own census, in effect, by answering the questionnaires and mailing them back in postage-free envelopes. Census takers will obtain the information from households that fail to mail back completed questionnaires as requested.

The remaining 10 percent, which will receive instructions to hold the completed questionnaires until census takers pick them up, are mostly in sparsely settled areas in the Western half of the Nation. In some cases, the census takers will ask

When 1980 Census takers arrive at homes in Virginia Beach, they will be carrying portfolios, and highly visible red, white, and blue cards for identification.

Census questions seek basic information about people—age, sex, occupation, and the like—and about subjects such as housing, personal transportation, and energy use. Most people will be asked to answer a basic census questionnaire, which has 19 questions. About one of five households, chosen randomly, will be asked to answer a longer version with 46 additional questions.

Federal law requires everyone to answer the census; it also protects the confidentiality of personal information. The only people who can see an individual's replies are census employees, who are sworn to secrecy under threat of a $5,000 fine and five-year prison term.

In the 50-year history of the modern census, confidentiality law, not once has the Bureau or one of its employees been formally charged with releasing census information about any individual. Landmark court rulings through this century have continually upheld the Bureau's refusal to release such information, even to the Secretary of State, the Attorney General, or to corporations involved in litigation.

Moreover, the Bureau designs its procedures to avoid situations that could lead to a breach of the confidentiality law. Names, addresses, and telephone numbers are never allowed to enter any computer. Social Security numbers are not requested by the census.

The 1980 census tabulations will yield a comprehensive statistical picture of the Nation, and of every State, county, and community. This data about social and economic characteristics will be used time and again in ways that benefit all strata of society, though the Census Bureau merely provides the data, and never applies it.

Being counted is crucial to full political representation as well. Census figures, besides their role in reapportioning the House of Representatives, are also used by most States to redistrict their legislatures and to adjust boundaries in municipal election areas.

The Abundant Life

America is the land of abundance. Ours is the most affluent society on earth. Surely, God has blessed this land with all the material things that make life more pleasant.

Christ promised us the abundant life. He said, "I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly" (John 10:10). Christ was not referring to the material things of life. The word abundance, here, refers to the fullness of life. We are assured that the quality of our life will be better if we accept Him.

Those who have received Christ know that this is true. Their eyes have been opened to a whole new world. They live life more fully and more creatively. If you would choose the abundant life, first, choose Christ. He will teach you the true meaning of these words.

Rivers running wild in mountains

White-water canoeing, fun for the adventurous

By ED LEWIS

With all the snow we have been having lately, I decided to hang up my fishing rod for a few days and head for the mountains to do a little white-water canoeing. I figured with all the snow melting the rivers should be pretty exciting, and they were.

My companions for the trip were Bobby Castellow, Jim Temple, Dave Murphy, Mike Throckmorton and Roger Jancatus. I had canoeed with Bobby and Dave before, and to the best of my recollection the last time I was out on the rivers with them I ended up in the hospital with a leg injury.

Mike had never done any white-water canoeing before so he was going to be the fall guy for anything and everything that went wrong. If the canoe capsized or Dave burnt the chow, it had to be Mike's fault.

Roger just flat refuses to get into a canoe. He said when he owned his own canoe he would run the river, but what he didn't tell everybody was that he doesn't have any intentions of buying one. Roger goes along on the trips to drop us off at the starting point and be there at the take-out point to pick up the pieces. At times I wonder if he isn't the only sane one in the group, especially when winter weather is still upon us.

Moormans River Run

Our adventure started last Thursday night at 11:30 p.m. when we finally got all our gear packed and departed Chesapeake for the mountains. We planned to run the Moormans River, which is just north of Charlottesville first, and then head for the Cowpasture River which is on the other side of Staunton.

We arrived at Free Union, Va. which is where Rt. 601 crosses the Moormans River, at 3:30 a.m. on Friday morning.

We set up camp right beside the bridge and this was to be our take out point when we run the river. Three hours later I was wide awake and ready to go. Dave got up and started cooking bacon and the aroma from it made it a little easier to get the rest of the guys up.

Female sunbathers?

We arrived at the put in point at White Hall, Va., where Rt. 810 crosses the Moormans River at 9:30 to begin the eight mile run back down River to the bridge at Rt. 601. This is the river that is full of surprises. My first trip down it several years ago landed me in the hospital.

But I guess we remember it the most because about half way down it that year we had rounded a sharp bend and lying on a rock was two nude female sunbathers. Had it not been for the pictures we took, this story would have been even harder to get across than the one about the Texas Jack Rabbit on Cobb Island.

The Virginia White

Guide describes the Moormans River as having class 2 & 3 rapids, which are difficult and frequently require extensive maneuvering. The river has small falls, large waves and numerous rapids. The course is not easily recognizable. Ledges and waves are three foot or less. Main currents may push canoes under bushes, branches or overhangs. Rescue can be complex because of long and fairly continuous rapids.

All Got Wet

As you can see, this river is no piece of cake, but we all fared pretty well on the trip. Everybody did get wet at one time or another and some even more than once but I won't call any names to avoid embarrassment to anyone, but it was Mike's fault.

The next morning we packed up and headed for the Cowpasture River. We arrived and were set up by 2:30 p.m. and had Roger carry us to the drop off point where Rt. 614 crosses the Cowpasture. We had to hurry because this was an eight mile run and we didn't want to be on the river after dark; we had a hard enough time when it was light.

Men Overboard

Dave was canoeing alone, I was teamed up with Bob, and Mike and Jim shared a canoe. We encountered a lot of wind on this run. Dave got blown cross ways the rapids at one point and capsized. The rest of us made it to the camp site with out getting dumped. Once we were at the take out point, Bob started pulling our canoe out of the water with me still seated in the stern. The next thing I knew I was in the icy water, and between Bob's laughter and my yelling I remember making a promise about the next run.

On Sunday Roger carried us up river again to the drop off point and we were ready to do it again. Bob decided that it was time I learned to run the river alone. I think he really was remembering the promise I had made the day before and didn't want to take any chances, so he teamed up with Dave. I was to get my first solo and I have to admit I was a little apprehensive at first.

As we got started Mike and Jim went about 10 foot and then capsized. I have yet to learn what caused it but according to Jim it was Mike's fault. After about ten minutes the river got real bad. Mike and Jim again lost it. The going was rough.

Going gets rough

About midway down the river Bob and Dave got their signals crossed and got sideways in the rapids and hung on a rock. It was all over then, and they both got dumped. We all got a good laugh out of that because they were the "pros." My best laugh came at the end of the run when I rubbed it in that I was the only one that didn't get dumped.

It was hard to leave our campsite that evening to head back to Chesapeake. We had been camped at the base of a six hundred foot cliff that came down to the river's edge. The view would make anyone want to stay longer.

If you are interested in white-water canoeing, Virginia is loaded with rivers and streams that can only be matched by a few other states. A good book to purchase that will tell you about all the rivers in Virginia is "Virginia White Water" by H. Roger Corbett. It tells how rapids are classed and what class rapids a particular river has. It also includes maps of all the rivers.

Bass biting

On the freshwater fishing scene things are still improving. Otis Nelson down at the Northwest River Camp Grounds told me that on Feb. 28 Junior Grey caught 15 Crappie, and Rowland Marshall boated a 6 lb. 6 oz. one.

On March 8, Randy Kane of Chesapeake caught a pike and a bass. The bass weighed in at 5 lb. 12 oz. On March 9 Jim Riddenhour caught 25 crappie but only kept the twelve largest. Also on the 9th Bryan Stump and Jeff Stewart caught 12 catfish.

On March 10 Junior Grey caught 24 crappie, one bass and two chain pickerel. It looks like those large bass are starting to feed so you might want to head down to the Northwest River and give them a try.

Today college counts

By RICHARD E. HOEHLIN

Special to the Sun

Recently our Industrial and Public Service Technologies Division at the Virginia Beach campus of Tidewater Community College hosted a community based drafting workshop. Twenty-five representatives from local architectural, engineering and drafting firms attended the program on a Saturday morning in February.

Threefold purpose

The purpose of the workshop was threefold. One, the participants were asked to evaluate the course offerings and contents of the drafting and design program at our campus. Two, they were asked to provide suggestions, if necessary, to keep the drafting and design program vital and relevant to our community's needs. Thirdly, we hope the workshop will help keep the communications channel open between TCC and the drafting community of Tidewater.

The technologies Division held such a workshop two years ago and plans to hold them every two years in the future to continue to keep in touch with the professionals in the area.

Prior to the evaluation session, the participants were welcomed by our provost, Dr. Michael F. LaBoue. He was followed by Robert S. Miller of Miller-Fox Civil Engineers who gave the keynote speech. Mr. Miller spoke on the relationship of various technical people in the engineering profession such as that between surveyors and draftsmen and between draftsmen and engineers.

In addition, several drafting and supply companies held exhibits and displays at the school for the benefit of both the participants and the students.

After Mr. Miller's speech, the group met to evaluate the curriculum. Among the suggestions was the recommendation that we incorporate a marine drafting program into the curriculum. The group also recommended the inclusion of courses in electrical and pipe drafting and sewerage and waste water treatment drafting into our mechanical drafting program.

The architects suggested that we add a course in photography and a course in surveying into our architectural drafting curriculum.

Over the next months our faculty will be meeting and discussing these and other suggestions. Where possible and practical, we will incorporate them into our curriculum. One of our purposes here at TCC is to try and meet the needs of the Virginia Beach community. Our drafting workshop is just one of many ways we try.

VIRGINIA: In the Circuit Court of the City of Virginia Beach

City of Virginia Beach Development Authority, Plaintiff, vs. Taxpayers, property owners, and citizens of the city of Virginia Beach, including nonresidents owning property or subject to taxation therein, and all other persons interested in or affected in a way by the issuance by the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority of approximately 3,000,000.00 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds for the Benefit of Reese Smith Associates, defendants.

MOTION FOR JUDGMENT

Plaintiff, City of Virginia Beach Development Authority (the "Authority"), seeks judicial determination pursuant to Article 6, Chapter 5, Title 15.1 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, of the validity of approximately $3,000,000.00 Industrial Development Revenue Bonds (the "Bonds") for the benefit of Reese Smith Associates, to include 1. Reese Smith, Reese Smith Associates, or any partnership or corporation in which 1. Reese Smith is a General Partner or major shareholder, (collectively the "Company" or "Reese Smith Associates") to be issued to acquire, construct, and equip six office buildings and all necessary related improvements to be located in Lynnhaven Executive Park at the entrance of Oceana West Industrial Park in Virginia Beach, Virginia (the "Project"), to be leased or sold to the Company, and states as follows:

1. The Authority was duly created on April 1, 1964, pursuant to Chapter 643 of the Acts of Assembly of 1964 of Virginia, as amended (the "Act"), and is a political subdivision of the Commonwealth of Virginia. The Authority has been continuously organized and operating under the Act since its creation, and no dissolution proceedings have been adopted.

At a meeting held on December 4, 1979, the Authority adopted a resolution, a copy of which is attached hereto as Exhibit "A", agreeing to undertake the issuance of the Bonds in one or more series from time to time in an amount presently estimated not to exceed $300,000.00 upon the terms and conditions to be mutually agreed upon between the Authority and the Company, with the Project to be leased or sold to the company upon terms designed to assure payment of principal and interest on the Bonds by the Authority in accordance with their terms and to provide security for the payment thereof. The proceeds of the Bonds, when issued, will be used to finance the costs of the acquisition, construction, and equipping of the Project and the issuance of the Bonds.

3. The Project constitutes "Authority Facilities" as defined in the Act.

4. When issued, the Bonds will be valid, legal, and binding limited obligations of the Authority, payable solely from the revenues and receipts received from the lease or sale of the Project to the Company and other security therefor. The Bonds will not constitute a debt or pledge of the faith and credit of the Commonwealth of Virginia or any political subdivision thereof including the Authority and the City of Virginia Beach, no taxing power of any political subdivision will be pledged to the payment of the Bonds, and the Bonds will not constitute an indebtedness within the meaning of any debt limitation or restriction.

WHEREFORE, the City of Virginia Beach Development Authority prays that the Court grant a prompt hearing and enter a decree with the least possible delay pursuant to Section 15.1-213, et seq., including Section 15.1-217 of the Code of Virginia of 1950, as amended, that (1) all proceedings theretofore taken in connection with the authorization or issuance of the Bonds are legal and valid; (2) the Bonds may be issued in one or more series from time to time to finance the Project; (3) the Project constitutes "Authority Facilities" as defined in the Act; (4) assuming their due authorization, execution and delivery, the Bonds issued for the Project will be valid, legal and binding limited obligations of the Authority; and (5) such additional matters as may be specially requested by the parties or as the Court may deem meet.

City council action

Kings Point residents grieve over subdivision drainage ditches

By LEE CAHILL
Complaints from Kings Point residents that the drainage ditch running through their subdivision is eroding their property were discounted by Public Works director Oral Lambert Monday afternoon at an informal meeting of Council.

He said that the ditch does not present a drainage problem but is more of an aesthetic problem.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that he is willing to recommend piping the ditch if residents are willing to participate financially. He would also recommend that the city base its assessments on the 1978 estimates for the materials of $175,900. The cost now would be closer to $259,000, he said, so that the city would have to make up the difference of over $83,000.

Under the city's participation policy the property owners would have to agree to pay for the cost of materials and the city would supply the labor and equipment. The total cost of the project at current prices, Lambert said, would be $355,000. In addition to the labor and equipment the city would have to bring in fill dirt to cover the pipe.

The 59 property owners would have to agree to share the cost of materials. Although 136 lots are in the subdivision, Lambert said, it is not likely that owners whose properties do not abut the canal will be willing to participate.

The city's participation policy has never addressed a problem this large, Lambert said.

Lambert recommended leaving the ditch the way it is, but the participation avenue is open to all citizens.

Lambert said the ditch is 3000 feet long from north th of Alcott Road to a point under the Little Neck Canal and has a cement bottom. When the subdivision was approved the city's policy required a 60-inch pipe. Now a 72-inch pipe would be required.

He said there had been complaints that the ditch banks were eroding and threatening private property. "I find that isn't so," he said, and showed slides of the length of the canal showing only one section where there was serious erosion. He said the ditch was excellently maintained.

The canal property is owned by adjoining property owners but the city has an easement for the ditch.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf asked about reports of rats in the ditch. Lambert said there were muskrats there, but not rats.

The tunnel

The last set of steps of the century at the Virginia Beach Civic Center may end up as steps in storage.

City Council is trying to decide whether the $80,000, 120-foot-long connecting the new Operations Building and the Administration Building needs a matching set of steps at both ends for those who want to cross over the partly above ground tunnel.

Council also told city manager George L. Hanbury that it would like to be consulted about changeorders which arise during construction projects.

Hanbury told Council Monday at an informal meeting of Council that he had issued a stop work order on a second set of steps to be constructed at one end of the tunnel. One set of steps have already been built at the other end and plans include steps on both sides of existing sidewalks.

Hanbury said the change order was approved during his absence but that he would probably have approved it. He brought the matter to Council, he said, because he knew the tunnel project was controversial.

He said $10,000 has already been spent on the second set of precast concrete steps, but that the total project would cost $31,000. The Operations Building will be there for another 300 years, he pointed out, and is the last building which will be built at the Civic Center during the century. The money is available in the project appropriation, Hanbury said.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that Council should be consulted about a changeorder that involves $2,000 or more.

Councilman Clarence A. Holland suggested that $2,000 was a little low.

Ervin said that the people think the Arts and Conference Center will cost $16½ million, but taking all the contracts in consideration, the total cost will come to over $20 million.

Vice Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr. noted that communications problems cause political problems.

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf questioned whether $20,000 should be spent to redeem $10,000.

Hanbury pointed out that the Operations Building has not only one but two ramps for the handicapped in the $50,000 category to conform to the symmetry required by Colonial Williamsburg design.

Councilman George R. Ferrell said, "I would say go on and finish it."

Ervin said that even the free-spending Federal government puts a limit to changeorders. "We should not give unlimited power to any city manager to approve changeorders."

Mrs. Oberdorf, at the formal meeting, moved to delete the second set of steps.

Councilman John A. Baum, was of the opinion that Council would be compounding the problem by throwing away $10,000.

Councilman W. L. Riggs looked at it another way. "We've already thrown away $10,000. Should we throw away $20,000 more?"

Hanbury said that in the future he would bring all major changeovers to the attention of Council.

Ervin suggested deferring the matter for a week to find out for certain just what the city's responsibilities are. He

Disclosure law

A Virginia Beach City Council Committee will study various disclosure law options and bring back recommendations to Council.

Vice Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr., presiding at Monday afternoon's Council meeting in the absence of Mayor Patrick L. Standing, appointed Councilwoman Barbara Henley chairman of the committee which will include Councilman John A. Baum and city attorney Dale Bimson.

Councilman R. L. "Buddy" Riggs, who originally brought up the disclosure question, turned down an appointment to the committee, after noting that the three-member committee would be adequate.

Riggs had suggested an extension of disclosure procedures now in effect which require all elected officials or those persons who are candidates for elected office, their spouses and relatives living in the same household to fill out and sign a disclosure of real estate holdings in the city of which they hold office or are seeking office.

Riggs wants the law to include all appointed officials and department heads of the city and the extension of disclosure to all sources of private income and real estate holdings regardless of the source.

Mrs. Henley Monday presented Council with information on disclosure in the State Code for State officials and a model form suggested by Common Cause. Disclosure is required of state officials when compensation is in excess of $1,000 during the preceding year.

She said that the Common Cause form was "extreme" but that she thought serious consideration should be given to adopting some additional disclosure and ethics requirements for local officials.

Councilman Reid Ervin said that some changes could be made. He pointed out that although officials are required to disclose real estate holdings, they are not required to disclose stock holdings. An official may have stock in a holding company which owns land. This ownership would not have to be reported.

Encroachments

Encroachments on city property at the north end of the beach aren't all bad, according to Councilman Reid Ervin.

In its crackdown on encroaching structures, the city may be taking the wrong approach, Ervin told Council Monday afternoon at an informal meeting.

He said that recreation is sparse in the north end and taking down the volleyball nets on the beach would make it sparser, he said. He said he had heard no complaints about the nets except during the annual volleyball tournament.

City manager George L. Hanbury said that the structures were more of a safety problem and he would like to determine the city's liability.

Ervin also said that some of the plantings encroaching on city property may actually help by stabilizing the beach.

Public works director Oral Lambert said that all property owners involved were sent written notices by return receipt mail advising that they were entitled to a review if they chose.

Over the years, north end property owners have encroached on the beach with decks, gazebos and other structures and plantings—and volleyball nets. The city is ordering removal of the structures which are not part of the main residences.

Birdneck Boxers represented in upcoming dog show

the smooth haired dachshund but there are also longhaired and wirehaired dachshunds.

The Dachshund Club also offers classes for junior exhibitors. These classes are for boys and girls between 10 and 17 and are judged on the child's ability to handle a dog in the show ring. One of last years top contestants in this class is 13 year old Chris Jensen. However, he will not be able to exhibit at this year's show since his wirehaired dachshund, Champion Poor Soul's Sweet'n Low, recently had a litter of puppies and must take maternity leave from the show ring! This year watch Robert Post, 12 year old son of Mike and Shirley Post compete in the junior classes with his smoothhaired dachshund.

Birdneck boxers
Birdneck Point Boxers, owned by Bert and Imogene Brown, have shown many Boxers to their championships in this area and throughout the East coast. In their kennel is Birdneck Basic Black'n Pearls who is now retired but in 1978 was the top winning bitch in the Working group in the United States. The Browns will be showing other Boxers in her place at this years show. They show both fawn and brindle colored dogs. These are the only colors permitted for Boxers; there are separate classes for each color.

The Doberman Pinscher is a very popular breed of dog today due to his excellent watchdog capabilities and family devotion. There are many "Dobs" in this area including several champions. Pete and Mildred Pirotte have shown their Champion Castle Lane Shenandoah extensively throughout the country to many fine wins amongst other top Dobermans in the country.

How Valle's Got to Virginia By Way of Maine.

Since 1935, Valle's has been taking the taste of our customers very seriously. It's a tradition.

For years Valle's has been the famous eating spot for vacationers in Portland, Maine. There was a lady from Atlanta who loved our Prime Rib; the Fort Lauderdale couple who raved about how fresh and well prepared our seafood was; the family who half-threatened to kidnap our Chef and his recipes, because they wanted that great Valle's taste in Virginia.

In 1960, we decided to take our great food to all the people who loved us. Now there are Valle's restaurants from Maine to Florida. That's why we're serving Valle's choicest cuts of beef and freshest of North Atlantic seafood right here.

During the month of March, join us in a special celebration of the Valle's tradition of serving only the highest quality food at reasonable prices... a tradition we couldn't have started without you.

Make up for snow days

School calendar revised

Monday, May 26, had been scheduled as a holiday for all, for the observance of Memorial Day.

The parent-teacher conference-in-service days will be made up on two successive Saturdays, April 12 and 19, but no students will report on those days.

The latest revisions allow school to end for students on June 12, as previously set in the earlier revision. The last day for teachers is June 13. Schools in Virginia Beach were closed for a total of seven days during the winter because of adverse weather conditions, a record for modern times.

The teaching calendar for Virginia Beach Public Schools has been revised for the second time, due to days lost following the March 1-2 blizzard. Days missed because of snow in January and February caused the first revision.

The days lost because of the March snow will be made up by students on April 3 and 4 and on May 26. April 3 and 4 had previously been set as parent-teacher conference days in the elementary schools and in-service days in the secondary schools. Students were not scheduled to be in school either day.

Wash up dead

Crabs bow to wind, surf

By GREG GOLDFARB
Virginia Beach Sun editor

Last weekend, hundreds, possibly thousands of dead blue crabs were washed up on the Virginia Beach shoreline.

Relaxed, intact, but a little scratched, the predominately female crabs lined the beach at the water's edge block after block.

Were they old? Diseased? Overpopulated? Had they hatched eggs and died?

Mysterious deaths

Al Hundley, assistant manager of the Mackay Island Refuge, Knotts Island, said, "I really can't say what killed them."

"I've lived here all my life, and it's routine to go to the beach and see dead crabs, but not in numbers such as this."

Marine commission

A spokesman for the Virginia Marine Resource Commission, Newport News, said, "We need a bacterial analysis to properly determine the crab's origin of death. It could be chipping blight. But the man to call is Dr. Van Engel. He's the expert."

Crustaceology head

Dr. W. A. Van Engel, Head of the Department of Crustaceology, Gloucester Point, had an answer to why the crabs were dead.

"I've seen a problem such as this before," Van Engel began. "It's not new, and might happen again."

"These crabs were helpless drifters; they had probably hatched in 1978, now, had become sexually mature, and were heading out of the bay to warmer waters and got caught up in a storm."

"The dead crabs had probably mated; had sperm in their bodies at the time of death, and were going out into a natural environment to hatch their eggs."

"But due to the cold water, which at the Chesapeake Light Tower is about 40° F., the crabs were trying to dig in until the warm weather arrived near the coast."

"But recently, there has also been some violent shoreline surf, and the crabs were buffeted back and forth until dead."

"The scratches on their backs is an indication of how the shells became scouled."

"Their abdomens are hanging open because they died in a relaxed state, with all muscles at ease."

Don't eat old dead crabs

Van Engel urges Virginia Beach residents not to eat dead crabs found on the beach.

"Unless I know when a crab, or fish, or anything died," he said, "I would not recommend anyone to eat any."

Call in reports

Van Engel also urges local residents to report any marine irregularities to his office in Gloucester at 642-2111.

Virginia Beach residents Angela Worella, 12, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Worella; and Mike Amdusky, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Amdusky, display some of the blue crabs found dead recently on the Virginia Beach shoreline. Photos by Greg Goldfarb.

Blue crabs such as these are usually a gourmet's delight. But local officials remind beach residents that washed up fish and shellfish are not edible.

Concerning public works director

Lets treat everyone alike'' - Ervin

By LEE CAHILL
Special to the Sun

"Let's treat everyone alike. That's all I'm asking," Virginia Beach Councilman Reid Ervin appealed to Council Monday afternoon.

City manager George L. Hanbury admitted to being guilty of just that. "I'm guilty of treating Mr. (Oral) Lambert like every other citizen."

Lambert isn't every other citizen, apparently. He's director of Public Works, but like other citizens, he wanted to subdivide the lot on which his house is located in Wolfsbane into two lots, creating one flag lot.

His request was approved administratively because, planning director Robert Scott said, it met the basic zoning and subdivision requirements. If an application doesn't meet these requirements the applicant can ask City Council for a variance, he said, and last week three did. Two of the three were approved.

Ervin at the informal session Monday said that in compiling the Comprehensive Zoning Ordinance in 1972, flag lots took up lot of time. The central issue, he said, is "whether or not we are administering this with an even hand. He said he was not criticizing Lambert, but was criticizing Scott and Hanbury. "If we're going to do it for Lambert we should do it for others."

He said that two of the variances before Council last week met the requirement (that the flag lots not be repeated in the area) more than Lambert's lot. "Why should others go through the anguish experience (of appealing to Council for a variance)?"

Hanbury said the lot is the only piece of property Lambert owns, that is large enough for two lots, that he was not a speculator, but like other people was trying to meet higher costs by selling part of his lot with his old house and building a new house on the flag lot. He said that Lambert had come to him first, and Hanbury said he had no objections. He instructed Lambert to submit the plat to the Planning Department and to make sure the plan could bear (See LAND p. 2)

All Metro team

Local Cape Henry Dolphins selected

The boys and girls basketball teams at Cape Henry Collegiate School have both had meritorious seasons.

"The boy Dolphins finished undefeated in Metro conference play," said eight year coach Tom Barnes.

"They were 23 and four overall and have captured the championship for the fifth consecutive year.

"The team also won area pre-season and post-season tournaments, and the Isle of Wight county invitational tournament."

Barnes said a tight knit starting team helped get the team its winning record.

"Seniors George Wagner, with a 24 point a game average, Pat Foley, 19 points a game, and Leonard Richardson, 145 rebounds this season, have been playing basketball together at Cape Henry now for five years," the coach said, "it's their closeness that helped secure our winning record this year."

The dolphins have been invited to participate in the Private School tourney, set for March 6 through 8 in Isle of Wight.

Girls: 15 and 0

The figirl Dolphins chalked up a 15 and 0 record in the all Metro Conference.

"The girls all played very well," said first year coach Teena Schaler.

"If they keep their grades up, as should the boys, they should go a long way."

scrutiny. The plat met all criteria and was approved administratively, he said.

"We're talking about creating one other lot. Last week at least two would qualify," Ervin said.

Hanbury said that Scott has been interpreting the ordinance for seven years, and "he has always been fair...The only problem is he's (Lambert) is a department head. There's been no violation of the law. Everything we could have required of any individual was required."

"Lambert has the highest moral character and his integrity is unquestioned," Hanbury added.

Ervin replied, "You're overreacting."

Councilwoman Barbara Henley suggested that in the future Scott should state in the variance information the reasons why the plat was not approved administratively. Council later agreed to request the information.

R. Ervin said in a letter to Council dated March 10 that he and councilman Donald Merrick had received identical complaints from a citizen who alleged that a flag lot had been approved administratively in violation of Council policy. The lot was Lambert's. The matter was referred to Hanbury who responded with a memo containing an explanation of the regulations in general and approval of Lambert's.

"Let's treat everybody alike. That's all I'm asking," Ervin said.

Councilman John A. Baum retorted, "The kinds of things you and Don have been stirring up...got to affect morale." Baum also inferred that Ervin had used the newspaper as a forum instead of going to the administration first.

"Didn't I come to you first," Ervin asked Hanbury, who agreed. Hanbury then said he was "guilty of treating Mr. Lambert like every other citizen."

Vice Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr., presiding in the absence of Mayor Patrick L. Standing, said, "We are the watchdogs of the city..." He said that nothing illegal was done but that poor judgment was shown. He said that Lambert's application should have been done the hard way—that is, before Council.

Councilman Clarence A. Holland disagreed, "We're not watchdogs, he said, "We're the legislative body."

Baum then starting to talk about the limitations the Freedom of Information act places on Council. "We act like 11 individual people. We have no policy!"

Letting go with both barrels, Ervin told Baum, that his constituents in Blackwater would not reelect him to Council and "I don't have much faith in your opinions." Baum is running for reelection in May.

Hanbury said that in the future if any flag lot application is turned down administratively, the reasons will be included in the Council agenda.

playhouse designed and detailed along the lines of the main house.

The entire residence for this young family has many new and practical ideas.

Open for the first time. Mr. and Mrs. Wylie R. Cooke, Jr., owners.

Built in 1934 as a home for the late William Grandy, this fine example of Georgian architecture at 420 Linkhorn Drive (opposite Princess Anne Country Club golf shop) is now four distinctive apartments. One of these is the home of Mrs. George Page.

The once formal drawing room is now filled with the present owner's treasures, collected from all over the world. Emulating the high ceiling and richly carved millwork are lovely antiques and furnishings done in warm beige and rose tones, with oriental accents and family portraits. One is of Mrs. William Winslow Bradford, wife of Massachusetts' first governor. Another, dated 1870 and done in the Eglonism method, is an interesting landscape by Mrs. Page's grandfather. His well known paintings of the Monitor and the Merrimac now hang in the Mariner's Museum.

Off of the living room is a modern kitchen with sitting area where the owner displays her mementoes of her White House friendships during the Nixon and Ford administrations.

This room was the Grandy Solarium.

The original dining room is now a lovely master bedroom, again with ornate millwork. The beautifully carved tester bed done by and Italian craftsman is of special interest.

Open for the first time. Mrs. George Page, owners.

Turn west on 47th Street (Bay Colony Drive), and go all the way to the end. Turn right on North Bay Shore Drive, and go to the end.

Here you will find a lovely red-brick Georgian design home, amidst several beautifully landscaped acres.

The large entrance hall has two lovely rugs—one is a Persian rug and the other is a Tabriz. A sixteen point star Ardabil Persian rug, similar to the one in the Iranian Embassy in Washington, is in the Dining Room. Many more beautiful rugs are found throughout the house.

The Hudgins have an unusually large collection of interesting contemporary paintings done by outstanding artists such as Barclay Sheaks, Marc Moon, Herb Jones, Will Haddon, Bob Price, David Cochran, Bob Vick, Tom McKinney, Leroy Nelman, and William Youngblood. These lovely paintings blend in beautifully with a mixture of antique and contemporary furniture.

Among the Oriental pieces downstairs is a lovely old French secretary, circa 1830. The butternut paneling in the Library is particularly impressive.

Upstairs are four tastefully decorated bedrooms, an office, and another sitting room.

Open for the first time. Mr. & Mrs. Robert W. Hudgins, owners.

Turn west on 47th Street (Bay Colony Drive), go to the end, turn right on North Bay Shore Drive. Dogwood trees with violets blooming underneath them, border the long lane that leads to the gardens and house (not shown).

The main garden is a plot of grass surrounded by a wandering, curving border that widens every year because Mrs. Hilliard can't resist planting something more. "I suppose that is I don't stop, the whole thing will be border-no grass," she says. She loves to plant, divide and root.

In 1953, she brought two dozen small plants of English box from Petersburg. Today, the original plants, grown to a dignified size, edge the brick walk that leads to the house. Their descendants, sturdy little bushes that Mrs. Hilliard has rooted, edge nearly the entire garden border.

Candy tuft, that she roots, grows in the front. The background is dogwood, and azalea. Lower shrubbery grows in the middle distance. Then comes a maze of flowers—cowslips, evening primrose, tulips, violets, white periwinkle and many more, all held in bounds by the sober green of the box.

Out beyond the main garden is "the field", a place where Mrs. Hilliard puts everything she can't fit in elsewhere—fruit and nut trees, vegetables, iris and a flourishing rose garden.

At the house, ivy so meticulously clipped that it looks as though it were painted on, runs around the base and arches over the door, beyond Gumpo azaleas stand under tall pines. Everywhere, you see the work of a horticulturist and "dirt gardener", who loves rare plants and common, wild flowers and tame, everything that's green and grows.

Mrs. Landon Hilliard, Jr., owner.

A sense of air and sea is felt upon entering this contemporary beach house. The owners have brought the "outside in" with the color scheme throughout the house. Blues for the ocean, greys and browns for the earth and melon for the lining of seashells.

A fireplace wall is paneled in Honduras mahogany and includes an inviting window seat. The house is filled with paintings and crafts by local artists and friends.

Open for the first time. Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Addington, Jr., owners.

Protection for eyes

Athletes get good news

By ED LEWIS

Virginia Beach sun outdoors writer

As you probably have read, there isn't much outdoors that I don't participate in or at least give a try. I have always been active in sports and other outdoor activities but I have always had a handicap, I wore glasses. My eyes are bad enough that I need corrective lenses in nearly everything I do.

Problems with glasses

I can remember playing high school football and having my glasses frames break and I would end up with a cut nose or part of the frame stuck in my face. If it wasn't an injury, the darn things would fog up on me.

During hunting and fishing season I was constantly plagued with rain or saltwater spray on my glasses and it seemed like every time I had a duck come into my decoys my glasses were covered with water. If it was cold, the least little twig that touched by glasses made my ears feel like they would fall off.

During the warm months if I was exerting myself and would begin to sweat, I would be constantly pushing my glasses up on my nose or they would slip off and fall to the ground. If they were the least little bit out of adjustment I would either be sore behind my ears or on the bridge of my nose.

In my duties as a police officer I have had them knocked off and stepped on while making arrest. At night when this occurred I was really in trouble, I couldn't see a thing. During scuffles I have been hit and had them break and stick in my face. I found myself being distracted by having to protect them.

Last August I had been sweating alot and my glasses fell off and I stepped on them accidentally. I have been wearing glasses for 24 years and this was the first time I had ever stepped on them. I really was fed up with the aggravation.

Soft contact lenses

I had my glasses repaired but the damage was bad enough that they really needed replacing. I had several friends that wore soft contact lenses but I had always thought that my eyes were too bad to wear them. My glasses had been so thick that I didn't see how it was possible for something as small as a contact to be able to replace it. But I figured I had to do something, so I made an appointment with an optometrist that specialized in contact lenses.

The following week I went to Doctor Thomas R. Cheezum in Great Bridge to be examined and possibly fitted with contacts. I was really impressed with the examination and surprised when he tried a set of soft contacts on me and I could actually see. It was the first time I had actually seen myself in a mirror clearly without those darn thick glasses on. It was great and I could hardly wait until my own pair would arrive.

The first week I had my new contacts I started flag football practice. I was a little cautious at first because I was afraid I would lose one but as the days went on I began to get a little more faith in them.

I played for the Drawbridge Lounge and we had entered in the Virginia Beach Adult Flag Football League, and it was pretty rough. I really had the time of my life not having to protect those darn glasses.

Hunting season

Next came rail hunting season. If you read my column back in September you will probably remember Ed Kaul and I hunting out of Oyster, Va. during a strong northeaster. The water was really rough, and Ed was constantly having to clean his glasses. I felt for him because I had been through it many times before. My only concern was that the salt water and wind might cause my lenses to dry out but it didn't. I felt great.

I also discovered that I had better peripheral vision. My shooting on wing shots had improved greatly. It didn't seem like I could miss. I also had the same luck when dove hunting. My kill ration had really improved.

By the time duck season came around and the weather got cold, I was swearing by soft contacts. I could wear the proper head gear to keep warm and not have it pushing my glasses all over the place. I was comfortable for the first time and my wing shots were still improving. It was perfect.

The Monday of the last big snowstorm, I left to go skiing at Wintergreen. It was the first time I had skied and been able to wear the proper goggles to protect my eyes from the glare off the snow and the cold wind. Later that week I returned to the mountains to do some white water canoeing.

I had some concern here about taking a bad spill and having one of my contacts wash out. Dr. Cheezum had suggested to me that I just try to remember to close my eyes when I hit the water and after doing so, I realized that that's what I always did anyway. I had no problems at all and I didn't have to worry about losing my glasses or breaking them in a bad spill.

I guess my biggest praise of the lenses comes on my job as a police sergeant. I find myself more confident when confronted with a situation where a scuffle might issue. I use to worry about having my glasses knocked off and then have to use my weapon without them. Some of my fellow workers may have worried about that to if they had known how bad my eyes were.

Safety pointers

When I told Dr. Cheezum that I was considering writing about my experience with the lenses he insisted that I give some safety pointers also, and he is right. There are things I use to do with glasses on that I find out now that I need to wear protective glasses or goggles.

When I used to use an electric bench grinder or saw I never put on goggles because I had those thick glasses (See GET p. 8)

Your number's up

By HARVEY RIDINGER

Field Representative, Social Security Administration, Virginia Beach Area

Local residents wishing new social security number start process early

Many people who need a social security number for a job or other reasons, may find they have a problem because they did not apply for their number soon enough.

People do not realize they cannot just walk into a social security office and have a number issued on the spot like they could in years past. Since it takes more time now, a person should apply for his or her number at least 6 weeks before it will be needed.

Recently, in one week's time, the local district office processed 284 applications for social security numbers; however, there were 161 other cases where letters had to be written to individuals because of errors on the application card or because of lack of evidence of citizenship or alien status. This, of course, delays the issuance of the social security number card.

Speed process

Because evidence of age, identity, and citizenship or alien status is required, a person can speed up the process if he or she has this needed information when applying.

Examples of evidence a person born in the United States can submit include:

For age and citizenship: A birth certificate or church record of baptism is preferred, but school record, church record, State or Federal census record, insurance policy, marriage record which shows age and date of birth, military discharge papers, delayed birth certificate, draft card, U.S. passport, or any other record showing age or date of birth can be used.

For identity: Driver's license, State identity card, voter's registration, school identification card, work badge or building pass, draft card or military ID, U.S. passport or U.S. identity card, credit card if signature shown, library card with signature, or any other document showing either signature or photograph.

Bring passport

Naturalized U.S. Citizens can bring their U.S. passport, naturalization certificate, U.S. citizen identity card, certificate of citizenship, or consular report of birth.

Aliens should bring one of the following: Alien registration card I-151, U.S. Immigration Form I-94, AR3a, I-186, I-185, SW-434, I-95a, or I-184.

Photocopies are not acceptable and all documents submitted will be returned. All documents are subject to verification.

Additional information and applications for a social security card can be obtained at any social security office. The Norfolk Office is located in the Federal Building, 200 Granby Mall, 6th floor. The telephone number is 441-3401.

Get good lenses

on. I never realized how much they protected my eyes until I tried it with just my contacts, I soon put on some protective eye wear.

In shooting you should always wear some sort of shooting glasses in case of the weapon exploding in your face. Dr. Cheezum said that amber shooting glasses were excellent because they filtered out certain wave lengths of light and gave you a sharper picture as well as eye protection.

These same glasses are excellent for driving in morning fog or mist. It is most effective in cutting down the glare, as does the amber fog lights that you see on the front of some autos.

With the summer months ahead, you will probably be spending alot of time out on the water in the hot sun, be sure to wear some protective sunglasses to protect your eyes from the suns ultra-violet rays. Although just normal exposure won't permanently damage your eyes, it can cause discomfort and headaches.

Dr. Cheezum recommends a dark green or grey sun glass lens. He actually prefers the grey for better protection. He also told me that you should avoid cheap glasses. Your sunglasses should be of the quality frame as if you were buying perscription glasses. You should also be sure that you have a good grade lens in them.

Today college counts

By RICHARD E. HOEHLEIN
Special to the Sun

Student activities provide extracurricular programs at TCC

The student activities office at the Virginia Beach campus of Tidewater Community College is the hub of all our students' extracurricular activities. Student Activities Counselor Fritz Zeisberg keeps tabs on events which range from concerts to intramural sports to community service programs.

Funds for such activities come from a portion of the profits from our bookstore and vending machine operations and from receipts from specific programs. The Student Government Association (SGA) has the responsibility for allocating these funds with the help and advice of their faculty adviser, Del Carlson, and from Mr. Zeisberg.

The SGA also is the group responsible for scheduling and budgeting for the students' special, community and cultural events on campus, such as folk singer Kirk Edwards who will appear on campus April 10, or the Virginia Woodwind Quartet which appeared last fall. Other special events in the past have included such things as a voter registration drive, a rape prevention seminar, school dramas, and visits by the Bloodmobile. All events such as these are open to the public and many of them are free of charge.

The SGA also allocate money for our student publications. They are The Counterpoint, the monthly school newspaper, and The Scrivener, the literary magazine.

Student clubs are an integral part of Student Activities, also. Our clubs are not social fraternities or sororities. They are curricular in nature, such as our Biology or Art Club. Clubs also may reflect special interests of the students, such as the Camping or Soccer Club do. Delta Sigma Lambda is an organization primarily for older returning women-students and the Black Student Alliance is primarily for black students. Regardless of the special focus of the organization, however, all of TCC's students have the opportunity to belong to all of our clubs.

Zeisberg is kept particularly busy scheduling a multitude of intramural sporting events for our students since community colleges are prohibited by law from inter-collegiate activity. He holds events for individuals, pairs, teams and for the handicapped. Faculty, staff and students may participate in such things as slow pitch softball, men and women's cross country and coed golf, chess and backgammon.

Students activities also include strictly social events, such as the SGA-sponsored dances. One of the highlights of the year is our spring arts week. This spring festival, which takes place in May, opens with a campus picnic and games. Films, musical performances and art and photo exhibits take place throughout the following week.

I have just touched on some of the many activities which emanate from Mr. Zeisberg's busy office. As you can see we try to offer our students a variety of extracurricular programs and in addition, we hope that many offerings are of interest to the community as a whole.

Beach businessman

Basso keeps it cool

By GREG GOLDFARB
Virginia Beach Sun editor

He's a man for all seasons.

During the spring and summer Virginia Beach resident, and businessman, Rudy Basso installs standing swimming pools. In the fall and winter, he insulates homes.

Interchangeable men

Actually, Basso, 54, has a group of "interchangeable" men who perform both jobs year round.

"The key to successful swimming pool installation," the College of William and Mary graduate said, "is having experienced men working for you. I've got 17 of them."

"Even my secretary is knowledgeable about pools."

Basso features Esther Williams pools, with water capacities ranging in gallons from 11 to 14,000; and in price from $900 to $9,000.

He said he prefers to install pools above ground, than below.

"We don't install below the ground pools," Basso said. "Prices have just gotten out of hand."

Beach over Capital in pools

Compared Richmond, where residents are almost two hours away from the shoreline, Beach residents, who live relatively much closer, buy more pools.

"People in Virginia Beach don't go to the beach," Basso said.

"Most of them think it's too crowded, and many of them have their own recreation area on their own property."

"The people down here can afford it, so they'll buy a pool, not go away on a vacation, stay at home and cut down on their fuel bill."

Basso said family unity is another reason Virginia Beach residents like swimming pools.

"Instead of family members running all over the beach," he explained, "a pool brings the family together at one location. It's healthy, and private."

Basso moved to Virginia Beach in 1972, the son of a Richmond contractor and a housewife. Both are retired now.

Sergeant Basso, in WW II

He graduated from John Marshall High School in 1944, and went into the Army; served two years with a platoon of men in the Pacific Ocean; and was discharged in 1946 as a sergeant before entering college.

"Going into the war was basically a duty," Basso recalls, but reminded of today's current world situation.

"Then we were full of vip and vinegar, and it was the thing to do, and I wanted to do it."

"But today, many people have different ideologies, and consequently different emotions about the world situation."

Basso

B.A. in D.E.

He received a bachelor's degree in distributive education from the Richmond Extension of The College of William and Mary in 1951.

Following that, Basso spent 1951 to 1955 in the fiberglass manufacturing business; and from 1955 to 1957 in the general contracting, and home improvement business; in 1967, he began building pools full time in Richmond; in 1973 he moved here with his wife, Sharon.

Basso's first local business location was on Cleveland Street, in Kempsville. The company outgrew the facility and moved to a location off Shore Drive. Now he operates at 404 South Parliament Drive.

He and his wife live in Kempsville. Basso has one stepdaughter, Sherry, 10

Active locally

His corporation is a one year member of the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce; and a two year member of the Tidewater Home Improvement Business Association (THIBA)

Basso said he and Sharon enjoy going out for dinners, and to the movies.

They recently spent 10 days in Bermuda over the winter; and plan to spend 10 in Canada this summer.

Beach fishermen invited

Saltwater fishing tourney set

There will be no changes for Beach anglers in the Virginia Salt Water Fishing Tournament's list of 22 eligible species when the contest opens its 23rd year on Thursday, May 1.

This is the second successive year that all weights have remained unchanged, with no species either added or removed from eligibility.

The announcement was made following a meeting of a special tournament committee with representatives of the Virginia Department of Conservation and Economic Development. The tournament program is operated by the department for the promotion and development of the Commonwealth's saltwater angling resources.

Citations

The handsome plastic-coated citations, bearing the anglers' name and the species and weight of his catch, are awarded for catches meeting the minimum weight requirements for the 22 species.

In its 22 years, 69,549 of the coveted four-color citation plaques have been awarded, providing documentary evidence of the variety and quantity of trophy-size fish in Virginia's marine waterways.

Catch and weigh

To qualify for an award, the angler needs only to catch a fish meeting the minimum requirements and have it registered at any of over 100 official weighing stations scattered throughout Tidewater. It is not necessary to register in advance and there is no fee of any sort.

The 12-member tournament committee, composed of representatives of all Tidewater geographical areas, reviewed a study they inaugurated in 1979 to determine the dependability of the swordfish and amberjack fishery, before deciding against any changes.

Swordfish

Swordfish were discovered off Virginia Beach in 1977 when anglers caught 20 broadbills. There were 13 boats in 1978 and only three were taken in 1979.

Amberjack, once eligible for Virginia citations, were dropped in 1977 because of intramurals. The contests, which are held at the end of each teaching unit, matched boys and girls competition in gymnastics, basketball, tumbling and volleyball.

Virginia Beach athletics

Out come the bats, balls

By GREG GOLDFARB
Sun Editor

The baseball and softball season in Virginia Beach begins in mid May, according to the Beach department of parks and recreation.

But many of the teams that will be competing in the city's leagues have already formed, and registered with the department.

5,840 players

"Last year we had 5,840 ball players in the Virginia Beach leagues," said Virginia Beach recreation supervisor in athletics David Van Covern.

"That's an increase over 1978, and we expect to have even more in 1980."

Van Covern added that in 1978, exactly 330 teams participated in the beach leagues, and in 1979 the number rose to 346, which is, "about our maximum," he said. "This includes adults, boys and girls."

"For 1980, we have reached our limit with independently sponsored adult teams at 175, and have a waiting list for more."

"For the boys and girls, however, we will continue to allow them to sign up with their area community leaders until April 8. We'll continue to allow them to sign up with their area community leaders until April 8. We'll take all the children we can."

2,958 games

According to Van Covern, ern, 2,958 games were played last year by adults and youths on the city's "27 to 29" athletic fields.

"The field availability determines how many baseball and softball players we can accommodate," Van Covern explained.

"Because space is sometimes tight, we require that adult teams be made up of at least 70 percent Beach residents."

Umpires

Van Covern said the umpires for the games are secured by the Eastern Virginia Officiating Association, Virginia Beach.

"We have nothing to do with the hiring of the umpires," Van Covern said. "We give the association our game dates, and they supply the officials."

$4,000 in funds

Approximately $4,000 was spent last year, according to Van Covern, on bases, awards, and other assorted equipment. He added:

"Rarely do we have any equipment stolen. Most of it is replaced because of wear and tear."

Local fishing news

Local anglers getting the bite

By ED LEWIS

It seems as though the bass have been keeping a little closer watch on the calendar than the weatherman.

Although the weather hasn't been cooperating as much as we would like, the bass definitely have noticed that spring has arrived and area anglers fishing down at the Northwest River Campgrounds have been taken advantage of it.

Otis Nelson, down at the campgrounds, told me that anglers who wanted to put up with the chilly weather and strong winds have been rewarded with moderate catches of bass, brim, catfish, crappie and pike.

Although he wasn't able to get a report from all the anglers that went out on the river this past week, Otis did manage to corner a few and it sounds to me like things are really looking pretty good.

12 crappie

On March 18 Richard Phillips of Virginia Beach and Frank Lowery of Chesapeake boated 12 crappie. On March 17 Reverend Ivey Carter of Norfolk loaded his creel with 7 bass and 5 (chain pickerel) pike. Rev. Carter had such a good time that he returned on March 19 and caught 8 bass and 3 pike, the bass averaged 2 lb. 3 oz. and he caught them on a 4 inch redeye broken back rebel lure.

On March 23 Junior Gray boated 22 crappie and 2 bass and the "River Rat" (Rowland Marshall) caught 7 crappie, the largest weighed in at 1 lb. 4 oz. and that is a real nice crappie.

On the same day Roger Meine of Portsmouth showed his skill by catching 35 fly brim.

The Trophy Bass Masters of Portsmouth also came down to the Northwest on Sunday March 23 and although they caught other species their bass catch came to 11 lbs. 12 oz. and H. W. Halstead accounted for over half of this total with one fish. Mr. Halstead won the competition with a nice 5 lb. 14 oz. bass. That's a fine fish on anybodys scale.

13 lbs. of Bass

On the same day Nate Hanson of Va. Beach caught 6 bass that totaled 13 lbs. and his largest of the string weighed in at 3 lb. 8 oz. Nate was using a rebel lure and was fishing about eight feet below the surface.

W. E. Weber of the USS America decided to spend his Sunday away from the ship and it proved to be a worth while venture. Using worms and small shiners he managed to pull 14 catfish from the river and the largest weight in at 2 lbs.

On March 24 M. J. Gallagher, J. Morris and M. Brawner of Virginia Beach landed 15 crappie and Slim Mizelle caught 10. On the same day Rowland Marshall and W. N. Dean caught 16 crappie and J. Grey landed five. It wounds like Jr. was slipping a little from his usual catch but he only went down the river to see what was going on and still managed to bring back the five.

fresh water fishing won't be the only weekend attraction. Channel Bass, flounder, bluefish and black drum will be appearing on the scene, and you can bet I will be waiting for them when the first are caught.

I talked to Irving Wyatt of Cape Charles, Va. on Monday and he told me that flounder should start biting by April 10 and if we have some warm weather before then we could expect them along the marsh channels out of Wachapreague and Oyster as early as April 1. So you might want to start stocking up on a few flounder (spreader) rigs so you won't have the extra expense of buying them when they arrive.

When I called over to talk to Emmet Bailey, of Baileys Bait and Tackle Shop, at Cape Charles, I cause of a lack of entries. New fishery areas have since been discovered off Eastern Shore and Virginia Beach. However, the tournament committee's study indicated that the fishery was not yet dependable enough to warrant reinstatement for 1980. A study of the dependability of both the swordfish and amberjack fishery will continue.

In addition to citations given for catches meeting minimum requirements, trophies are awarded for the heaviest entry in each category.

ment aboard that is required by the U. S. Coast Guard and then you might want to add a few extras such as a CB or Marine Radio.

You should start buying fishing tackle and lures now to avoid the burden of the expense all at once when the season starts. Also you might want to lubricate your reels and replace the line that is already on them.

As for your boat trailer, be sure that you grease the wheel bearings and if they need replacing, replace them. Your trailer lights might also be defective, and repairing them now might save you the expense and time when you are ready to go fishing.

Also check your safety chain. I personally have had my trailer come off the hitch and my safety chain broke. It is not a good feeling to watch your boat pass you when you come to a stop sign.

Also be sure you use straps when trailering your boat and I go one extra step by running my anchor line from my bow cleat to the tongue to my trailer and back again several times just in case the winch lets go the boat won't back off the trailer and onto the highway.

I was four boats ruined in this manner last April. It was really sad.

Your number's up

By HARVEY RIDINGER

Field Representative, Social Security Administration, Virginia Beach Area

Women get equality with social security

One of the strengths of the social security system is its ability to adapt to changing needs.

When the original Social Security Act was passed in 1935, the United States was a much different place than it is today. Over the years, the law has been amended on several occasions in an effort to keep it up to date to new conditions.

The treatment of women under social security is a case in point. In 1935, the typical American family consisted of a husband-the breadwinner-and his dependent wife who cared for their children; and, for the most part, they remained together until "death did them part." Only about one in every four women was gainfully employed.

Divorced

Today, by contrast, we find one divorce for every two marriages, and more than half of all women-including half of all married women-are in the workforce. Obviously, the once clearcut distinction between men as wage earners and women as homemakers no longer exists. Nevertheless, in large measure the program continues to treat women primarily as adult dependents.

In recognition of the changing roles of men and women in our society, Congress requested the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to study the issue of equity for women under the social security program. The Department report was submitted in February 1979.

While offering no specific recommendations, it did suggest two approaches for consideration-an earnings sharing plan and a double-decker option.

Earnings sharing

Under earnings sharing, one-half the total annual earnings of both a husband and wife would be credited to each, regardless of whether one or both were employed. At retirement, benefits for each would be based on half the total earnings during the time they were married, and on their individual earnings during the years they were single.

The rationale for this proposal is that a husband and wife are partners in a marriage and, whether gainfully employed or a homemaker, should share earnings equally. In this sense, neither is considered a dependent of the other.

Under the double-decker plan, a specific benefit would be paid to every one who met certain requirements, regardless of his or her earnings. In addition, the person would get a benefit based on his or her earnings covered by social security.

Advisory Council

The issue of equity for women was considered by the 1979 Advisory Council on Social Security, which is appointed every 4 years. The Council suggested that earnings sharing is the more promising approach, but refrained from recommending it since the plan still has to be refined.

While the final word on the question of equity for women under social security has not been spoken, one thing is clear: Social Security will continue to adapt to society's changing needs-for the decade of the 80's and beyond.

Council decides to "wait and see" on housing

By LEE CAHILL

Staff Writer
Virginia Beach City Council has taken a wait-and-see stance in connection with a housing sites locations map which some fear gives HUD the power to dictate where assisted housing will be located.

Richard J. Webbon, representing the Council of Civic Organizations, said that the map portends something new—the buying of new property and addition of rehabilitation property by census tract.

"If there is not enough low income housing in certain areas enumerated on the map, low income property may be added. You're leaving the door wide open for some bureaucrats to tell us what to do." The areas were not enumerated by the city's master plan but by census tracts, he said.

As a result of the discussion, Council deferred for 30 days action approval of resolution amending the Housing Assistance Plan (HAP) which would remove the census tract districts from the southern portion of the city and add more in the northern portion expanding assisted housing to areas beyond the target neighborhoods.

The change was made to conform to the city's master plan to keep the southern portion of the city agricultural.

Council by a vote of 7-3 approved deferral of the resolution for 30 days with the exception of two census tracts. City manager George L. Hanbury said the inclusion of the two tracts in the deferral might delay action on 120 units for the elderly which are expected to be placed there. The site is near the Rose Hall development.

Councilman Clarence A. Holland said that he had received one phone call. He also noted that only 11 people showed up at the public hearing where the plan was discussed.

Hanbury said that concern seems to stem from the situation in Hodges Manor in Portsmouth where the Department of Housing and Urban Development have threatened to cut off funds unless a subsidized housing development is placed next to Hodges Manor.

The Beach has never had any difficulty, he said, and has exceeded the subsidized housing allotted to it. He said that holding off action would deny the units for the elderly. Assistance, he said, is for many different kinds of people.

He added that the areas could be included under normal zoning regulations.

Sam Houston, a member of the Community Development Committee, said that, "If HUD is saying that unless you adopted this you will lose funds...We have a plan..."

He said that he abstained from voting when the Committee approved the plan.

Hanbury said that HUD has not directed that the plan be approved. Council can make modifications, he said, and delay can be accomplished by public hearings. The city is so large and there are so many different types of housing here, that Virginia Beach "will never have the problem of the city of Portsmouth has."

Councilman George R. Ferrell said that it looked like the first step for a Housing authority.

Voting against the motion for deferral with the exception of the two census tracts for the home for the elderly, were Ferrell, Vice Mayor J. Henry McCoy Jr. and R. L. Riggs. Councilman Donald Merrick was absent.

Council approved a resolution applying for $2,764,000 for six year funding for the Community Development program.

The HAP map delineates areas suitable for new construction of assisted housing. Approval of the HAP amendment expands these areas.

King's Point

In a city lined and interlaced with ditches, the King's Point ditch is the daddy of them all.

So think the 59 families that line the ditch and their neighbors in the subdivision.

Gerald L. Kerr III, attorney for the residents, told Council Monday evening that he has wandered the ditches of the City had found nothing comparable. The next worst ditch is the one in Level Green, "and it can't compare," he said.

City manager George L. Hanbury entered the ditches of Bellamy Manor, Fox Run and Fairfield in the worst ditch competition. And therein lies the problem. There are too many ditches in the city that can stand a little face lifting.

The people of King's Point think the city should pay most of the cost of piping their ditch. If the city did that, Hanbury said, it would have to do the same for other areas.

So far, Kerr said, the people think they can come up with $28,000. The city will do the work if the residents will contribute $84,000. At that, it's a bargain, according to Hanbury, because Hanbury has agreed to accept the $84,000, the cost of materials at the 1978 estimate. The cost would be closer to $200,000. Under the City's policy, the residents pay for the materials and the city does the work.

Kerr said that he didn't know whether the residents could come up with that much money because all may not agree to contribute. It's a voluntary thing. It appeared that all of the residents were at the Council session Monday night waiting until the end of a five-hour meeting to make their case.

Art McNally, who lives on Edinburgh Drive, displayed the evidence of effects of the ditch—a rattlesnake and seven garter snakes preserved in a jar of formaldehyde.

Kerr refuted assertions by Public Works director Oral Lambert that the ditch was stabilized and said it was wider, (36-47 feet) than Lambert had indicated.

He said that the ditch was cleaned of silt last November at a cost of $9,396 and the silt has already reformed, indicating that the job would have to be done by the city two or three times a year. In the summer, he said, the ditch is overgrown with two feet of grass, rats, snakes and other vermin, and stagnant water which breeds mosquitoes. Slides were shown to illustrate the talk.

Councilman John A. Baum said that "if we start this as a precedent, we're going to have to pay an awful lot of money." He said the people must have been aware of the ditch when they bought their houses.

Kerr said the people were sold a bill of goods by the realtors. They were told that the city would take care of the stability and maintenance.

The residents own the ditch property, but the city has a drainage easement.

Hanbury said that if Council agreed to the resident's request, it would have to do the same in other neighborhoods.

Ronald Howell, of 3253 Alcott Road, said that he has come across four snakes in his yard, one at the entrance to his home.

Robert Garneau said the decline starts at his fences. "We have a pool now. Visit the pool before it becomes a waterfall."

Jane Fowler said that one of the workmen spraying the ditch quit when he was a copperhead. Another snake was taken away from her front door by the Bureau of Animal Control.

Thomas Llewellyn of 3357 King Richard's Court, said that three years ago the ditch was functional. He has since had to fill in one area with cement, but the slab is falling now.

McNally said he has lost about 10 feet of property.

Hanbury said that he would meet with the residents next week but "doubt I can reduce the figure."

Councilwoman Meyera Oberndorf said that we're going to have to put in (ditch repairs) in our Capital Improvement Budget."

Parking problem

The elimination of 100 parking spaces on Atlantic Avenue last year has hurt business along the street, two businessmen told Virginia Beach City Council Monday evening.

They asked that the spaces be reinstated and the parking meters installed in time for the upcoming summer season.

City manager George L. Hanbury said the situation will be improved this year with the synchronization of the traffic lights which will move traffic faster on the left-turn stacking lanes.

Restricting parking between 16th and 18th Streets and 20th and 23rd Streets on Atlantic Avenue "has not corrected the problem," Leigh Forbes, president of Forbes Candy Company, Inc., said.

Joseph Howa, who has four gift shops at the beach, said that his store at a 24th Street location, where parking is still permitted experienced and eight percent increase while the store at the 22nd street location experienced and 18 percent decrease.

This operation never showed a decrease before, he said.

Howa said that the city can create an additional 100 parking spaces just by putting back the parking meters.

Hanbury said that eventually the street may be one-way. He added that the public is not responsible for providing parking for the merchants. One-way side streets have improved parking conditions, he maintained, and recommended that the Research and Advisory Council study the matter.

Councilman R. L. Riggs said that the city put in one-way streets over his objections and those of Beach businessmen. "It seems like the only one in favor is the city government."

Howa said that the Beach Borough Merchants Group was not against one-way streets and will try anything that will work. He maintained that the parking ban on Atlantic was tried and didn't work.

Councilman Reid Ervin admitted that he hadn't noticed any great improvement over previous years and if this is true the city should go back to parking on Atlantic. Otherwise, he said, the city would be discriminating against a group of merchants in a four-block area.

Hanbury then mentioned the synchronization.

Ervin suggested looking into possible federal grants for synchronization of lights. "If money is available let's start working in Virginia Beach Boulevard."

Hanbury said that work will start on that project next month.

Visitors welcome

Virginia Beach is getting its house in order to welcome the some two million visitors it expects this summer.

City manager George L. Hanbury told Council Monday evening at an informal session that a month has already been almost filled with Canadians alone.

Council Monday also approved a $31,558 appropriation, an expense which will be paid by the Innkeepers Association, for the operation of the Tourist Information Center at the beach.

An appropriation of $11,145 to operate the new shuttle bus service at the beach through June 30.

The Chamber of Commerce, which owns the center located on city property next to the dome, is presently without a full-time director or supervisory staff personnel. Hanbury said that a backlog of tourist inquiries and follow up's have resulted.

The Innkeepers are concerned that this season may be a difficult one because of gasoline prices, Hanbury said, and have agreed to put up the money for the center if the city takes over supervision. Hanbury said that the city spends a million dollars a year on tourist advertising and that he would have to spend the money with no follow-up.

The money will pay for two employees over the next three months and office expenses. The center receives approximately 1,000 inquiries a day. Hanbury said that last year the city appropriated $45,000 for the operation of the center.

The "Virginia Beach Transit Company" will go into operation about April 15 when the first two of four shuttle buses are expected to be delivered.

Actually the buses will be operated under the auspices of Tidewater Regional Transit (TRT) by federal funds paying for half the operational and capital costs.

City Council Monday evening appropriated $11,145 for contract with services and materials and supplies for the buses through June 30, 1980 after which the new budget will go into effect.

Personnel will be paid under the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) for the period through June 30.

The second two buses are expected to be delivered about May 15.

The buses will be operated between hotels, motels, Pavilion, the Beach's new convention center where free parking will be available, and other city parking lots.

Hanbury said that the buses will probably come along every 15 minutes with a stop at every corner. The rear will have an area for beach equipment and surfboards.

The buses will sport a bell — just like San Francisco, Hanbury said — and personnel in red and white striped shirts.

Toll removed

Virginia Beach City Councilman R. L. "Buddy" Riggs has proposed the removal of tolls on the Chesapeake Bay Bridge-Tunnel to stimulate the tourist industry at the Beach.

In a letter distributed to Council members Monday evening before the 5:30 p.m. informal session, Riggs asked Council to request the governors of Virginia and Maryland as well as Congressional delegations of both states to petition the U.S. Department of Transportation to budget funds to take over the bridge tunnel complex and to make it a part of the Interstate Highway System.

The matter was not discussed, however, when the formal session continued until midnight.

Riggs noted that the majority of the city's out-of-state visitors come from northeastern states. Since high gas prices may deter tourism, he suggested removal of the tolls as a spur to the tourist industry.

Maryland also will benefit by attracting visitors from the south.

Other beneficiaries will be daily commuters from the Eastern Shore who shop, vacation and receive medical treatment in this area and trucks.

Volleyball wins

Devotees take note — Volleyball at the north end of the beach has been sanctioned by the city.

The poles and nets — about six of them put up by private citizens — will be allowed to remain. For a while there, they were under threat of removal along with decks and gazebos' encroaching on the public beach.

City manager George L. Hanbury Monday evening said that because of great interest in the game, the nets will be allowed to remain but will be under the Parks and Recreation Department. Hanbury said that Virginia Beach has champion volleyball players.

The hobic cat tie-downs however, will have to go. Hanbury said that shortly he will recommend the use of a particular portion of the beach for hobic cats where tie-downs will be furnished for a fee.

The Virginia Beach 1980-81 operating budget will be presented to Council on March 31 at 1 p.m. A public hearing on the budget has been scheduled (See OTHER p. 10)

In Virginia Beach

Plan your garden early

A garden in Virginia Beach is only as good as the start it gets in the spring.

That's why proper planning and planting is so important. And by following a few simple guidelines early in the season you can turn what would have been an average yield into a bountiful harvest.

Every successful garden starts with a plan. Late winter-when you are eager to get outside-is a good time to begin.

At this stage a good plan will include all preplanting tasks choosing crops and a site, sketching out your proposed garden, and assembling the proper store of garden tools.

Decide first

First, decide which vegetables you'd prefer and how much to plant. This will depend on your family's size, what they like to eat, whether you can freeze, and the amount of gardening space available. A 12 x 15 foot space can yield a variety of vegetables to keep a family of four well supplied throughout the season.

Also consider how much space each crop needs to yield the desired amount. For example: a 10 foot row will yield about three pounds of bush-type snap beans; 8 to 20 pounds of tomatoes; and 10 to 20 ears of corn. If you are a beginner, realize that some vegetables are easier to raise than others.

Good choices for the beginner are beans, tomatoes, radishes, lettuce, beets, carrots, and summer squash.

Once you've decided what to plant and how much-select the seeds. Each vegetable is available in numerous varieties.

Your local Cooperative Extension Service Office can supply you with a list of vegetable varieties that have been tested successfully in your area. Also ask neighbors and friends who garden for advice.

They can recommend successful varieties and a reputable source for quality seeds and seedlings. Once you know what you want, stock up on seeds early. If ordering from a catalog, allow for adequate delivery time.

Choose site

When you select a site for your garden, remember that sunshine is the most important consideration. Don't plant in a spot that's shaded by trees or buildings; direct sunlight for at least six hours a day is required by almost all plants. If the only garden plot available to you is shaded, you'll probably have the most success with leaf crops such as lettuce, chard, or spinach. Since the edible part of these plants is the foliage, a lack of sun is not as critical as with vegetables that must develop a fruit.

Also choose a site where water is easily accessible and air movement is adequate. Don't worry too much about the soil. It's probably fine for gardening. In general, if weeds will grow there, vegetables will too.

Next sketch out a map of your garden on paper. Plan to plant the tallest vegetables, such as staked tomatoes or fenced beans in a spot where they will not shade other plants.

Allow plenty of room for spreading vegetables, such as squash and cucumbers, plus a small area for herbs. Some rows will serve double duty during the growing season. Lettuce, radishes, beets and carrots mature early enough so that after they're harvested, the same space can be used to plant late crops.

After your map is drawn, check your garden tools. Generally all you need are a few simple tools. But a rake, spade, hoe and sprayer are necessities. Make sure you choose the right tool for the job at hand. Consider exactly what you will be using the tool for and plan accordingly.

When you choose a sprayer, consider the size of your garden and the types of spraying jobs you will be doing. According to H. D. Hudson Manufacturing Company—a maker of sprayers and dusters—a compression sprayer is best for most garden chores. Available with tank capacities from one to four gallons, the compression sprayer gives you good control over the spray material, which means complete coverage without waste.

For small gardens the most convenient sprayer is the cordless electric sprayer which combines the ease of pushbutton spraying with the versatility of a compression sprayer. Lightweight and compact, this sprayer is easy to use and carry anywhere. Large gardens are best treated with a season. Lettuce, radishes, beets and carrots mature early enough so that after they're harvested, the same space can be used to plant late crops.

As the weather warms, your next job is to prepare the soil for planting. A two-inch layer of organic matter added to the soil each spring will help im-

Beach gardens

Early care, a must

Any Virginia Beach resident who wants a beautiful and healthy lawn should start preparing it now for the months ahead.
Early care, before it may even seem needed, will give your lawn a quick start this spring and continued good health throughout the summer.

Cleaning

During the winter lawns accumulate a layer of matted grass stems, undecomposed clippings and other debris. This is called thatch.

Thatch may prevent necessary moisture and fertilizer from reaching the root zone. It should be removed with a fine-toothed rake as soon as the ground has thawed.

Greening

After the thatch has been removed, mow off and collect the top half-inch of brown grass. This removes the dead portion of the leaf and exposes the plant to spring rain and sun.

Removal of this insulating layer quickens soil warming and spring greening.

Overseeding

Overseed thin areas while the ground is still cracked by early spring freezing and thawing. The grooves are natural protective lodging places for seed, and soil contact is almost perfect.

Germination may not occur until soil temperatures are warm enough. Once warmer weather does arrive, start watering the seeded area three times a day unless you are getting equivalent rainfall.

Feeding

A fertilizer contains the essential plant nutrients to improve density, color and uniformity of turf. A healthy, properly fertilized lawn will better tolerate heat, cold, drought and wear. It will also stand up to attacks by insects, weeds and disease. Fertilizer labels must carry the specific analysis (weight percentage) of the three major nutrients: nitrogen, phosphate and potash.

Established lawns usually respond best to fertilizer ratios of 4-1-2, 5-1-2 or 3-1-2. If the lawn has been damaged over the winter, an early spring feeding will aid in recovery. In general, give your lawn only enough fertilizer to make it green. Overdoing it may make the grass soft and weak.

Mowing

Initiate regular mowing as soon as the leaves show growth more than 40% above the usual cutting height. In late spring you will probably need to mow every 6 to 8 days. Avoid cutting off too much of the grass leaf (more than one third) at a time.

Watering

A certain degree of winter drying occurs on lawns every year. This results in a "wind-burn" effect that makes the lawn brown. Watering can help prevent this severe drying. When spring arrives, try to supply your lawn with the equivalent of at least one inch of rain weekly. A good rule of thumb is to water the lawn any time three or four days pass without a good rainfall.

Spraying protects plants

When Virginia Beach residents need to protect yards from insects, weeds, and plant disease, the right sprayer can save time and work.

Even more importantly, the right sprayer can help you get the results you want—a weed-free lawn, bountiful fruits and vegetables, and a beautiful yard.

How used?

Before choosing a sprayer, consider how it will be used. The size of your yard and the type of spraying jobs to be done will help you determine which sprayer is best for your needs.

According to H. D. Hudson manufacturing company, a leading maker of sprayers and dusters, you should choose a sprayer that applies the spray material with the right pressure, in the right amount and pattern, and right on target. This will insure complete coverage of the plant without waste.

One of the most popular tools for applying pesticides is the compressed air sprayer available in capacities from one to four gallons.

High versatile, it is ideal for almost any yard and garden spraying—lawns, flowers, vegetables, shrubs, or trees.

Look for a compression sprayer with an instant on-off control so you can spray just to the point of run-off without drenching or waste. Also be sure the sprayer has a long hose for easy reach and an adjustable nozzle to provide a variety of spray patterns from a fine mist to a coarse spray.

Cordless electric

Gardeners will find added convenience in a cordless electric sprayer. With virtually the same performance as a compression sprayer, the 1/2 gallon cordless electric sprayer is lightweight and compact—easy to carry anywhere.

If trees need protection, the slide-type Hudson trombone sprayer sprays at high pressure to reach trees as high as 25 feet. The nozzle also adjusts to a fine spray excellent for low-growing plants.

uled for April 30.

"Our own"

Whether a gay newspaper, "Our Own" should be included among a public library's reading material will be discussed at a meeting of the Virginia Beach Library Board at 10 a.m. on April 7.

Supporters of the newspaper and residents opposed to placement of the newspaper in a Virginia Beach public library went to City Council Monday evening to present their views but left after Mayor Patrick L. Standing announced there would be no discussion of the issue by Council.

Standing also announced the Library Board meeting.

Sunrise service

The 52nd annual Easter sunrise services at Fort Story will take place April 15 at 5:42 a.m. under the sponsorship of the Beach Borough Ministerial Association, the Virginia Beach Chamber of Commerce and the Military Command at Fort Story.

The assembly will be at the Cape Henry Memorial Cross which marks the first land of the Jamestown settlers on April 26, 1607. On April 29, the settlers fashioned an oak cross and set it up at a place they called Cape Henry for Henry, Prince of Wales, eldest son of King James I of England.

Music will be provided by the Armed Forces School of Music at Little Creek and the Sunrise service speaker will be the Rev. James C. Rittenhouse, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Virginia Beach.

In case of bad weather, the service will be held at the First Presbyterian Church, 36th Street and Pacific Avenue, at the same time.

"Lady Day"

March 29 has been declared Norwegian Lady Day by Virginia Beach Mayor, Patrick L. Standing.

Get a good start

prove your harvest markedly. The organic matter releases nutrients that speed rooting and top growth. After a few years of adding compost, the soil will become crumbly, enabling rapid cultivation and weeding.

Planting is the next important step. But you may have to start indoors. It takes quite a long time for some vegetables to mature. So it's necessary to give slower-growing varieties such as tomatoes, eggplant, and peppers a head start. This is done one of two ways; either by planting the seeds indoors while it's cold outside, or by buying seedlings from a nursery or garden center when it's time to plant outdoors.

If you start seeds indoors, use good quality soil. Just about any container sill serve as a flat-cans, pots, shallow milk cartons, etc. Be sure they have drainage holes. Moist soil well about two hours before planting. Plant seeds 1/4" deep in rows two or three inches apart.

Cover with plastic and keep warm. When seedlings appear, remove plastic and place in a sunny room. Water regularly. When plants are about two inches tall, transplant them to individual pots. If you prefer, skip the preceding steps and buy seedlings when you are ready to plant outdoors.

The correct time to plant seedlings or seeds outdoors depends on the average date of the last frost in your area. Hardy crops such as spinach and broccoli can be planted several weeks before the frost-free date; carrots and cauliflower two weeks before the date. But wait until after the frost-free date to plant tender crops such as tomatoes and corn.

Set transplants out on a cloudy day. Direct sunlight can dry the tender plants quickly and cause damage. Never plant when the soil is too wet. If it crumbles, it is just right. Dig holes for the plants that are slightly deeper than they were previously growing.

Quickly maturing vegetables such as beans, beets, broccoli, carrots, lettuce and summer squash can be started from seeds directly sown into the ground. Before planting seeds, rake the surface of the soil and mark off rows. Use small stakes at either end and run a string between them to insure straight rows.

Don't plant seeds too deeply. A good rule of thumb is to plant seeds at a depth three times the smallest width of the seed. Avoid sowing too thickly. This wastes seeds and makes thinning later more difficult. Firm soil over the seeds by treading it down or pressing with the back of your rake. Water the garden well if the soil is dry.

Large gardens

If you have a large garden, you may want to stagger planting times. Then you will avoid having to harvest a large crop of one vegetable all at once. To stagger planting-start seeds or transplants in several different groups about a week apart, planting a portion of the row at a time. Crops that don't keep long-like lettuce-are also good choices for staggered plantings.

If you plan and plant properly, your garden will be on its way to success. But-as experienced gardeners know-good cultural practices will be needed in the months ahead to produce high yields. Fertilize and water your garden when needed. And set up a program to control weeds, insects and plant disease.

Early in the season start watching for problems in your garden. Small trouble spots will be easier to treat than large neglected areas. Weed often. Check leaves regularly for insect damage (holes in the leaves, ragged or curling edges) and the symptoms of plant disease (spots or mold).

Make sure your sprayer is in good working order now. Then it will be ready when its needed. And when you do spray, be sure to use the correct pesticide. If you are in doubt about which pesticide to use, or if you cannot identify an insect or plant disease, ask your local lawn and garden center or state extension service for advice. They can suggest the best spray for the job.

As spring approaches, plan ahead and follow proper planting guidelines. Follow up with good care throughout the summer including a regular spray program to control insects and diseases. And this fall you'll enjoy a better tasting vegetables and a more bountiful harvest.
